The following reflects the proceedings from the twenty-fourth (24th) meeting held of the Software Transparency Foundation on September 22nd 2023 at 2pm (CET).

The meeting was called to order by Mr. José María Lancho and was held in person at the ITIS (Univertisity of Malaga).

ATTENDEES:

The following attendees participated in the meeting:
Mr. José María Lancho Rodriguez
Mr. Julian Coccia

The following attendees, representing sponsors and guests, participated in the meeting:
Ismael Navas Delgado (Univ. Malaga)
GaoKun (Huawei)
YangFang (OpenEuler Project)
LiuShhan (OpenEuler Project)

AGENDA ITEMS:

1. Opening comments

Mr. Lancho Rodriguez thanked everyone for participating and opened the meeting. In particular, thanks, he thanks the presence of GaoKun, YangFang and LiuShan, guests from the OpenEuler project, who, along with Julian Coccia, and Jose Maria Lancho, gave a talk on intellectual property and open-source software management at ITIS (University of Malaga) prior to this foundation meeting.

2. Traffic increases on OSSKB
Traffic on the OSSKB continues to show increasing demand, and there are warnings regarding the misuse and exploitation of certain API features.

3. Upcoming meetings

ITIS offers the location to host upcoming meetings; however, due to the geographical distribution of participants, the next session will be conducted virtually, as is customary, on the last Friday of October (10/27 at 9 am).

4. Increasing interest on SBOM

Comments are made on the growing interest observed at the Open Source Summit regarding software supply chain visibility, the increasing interest in SBOM (Software Bill of Materials), and the fact that the presence of companies offering services related to software composition has doubled compared to the 2022 event.

5. Interest on CO2 footprint

There is an expressed interest and concern for sustainability and the need to obtain metrics for classifying open-source software components based on their level of CO_2 emissions.

6. Closing comments

Mr. Lancho Rodriguez closed the meeting and scheduled the next meeting for October 27th, 2023 at 9am (CET).
